

Prior to her transplant, Michelle was told by doctors that she would never play her much-loved sport of volleyball again. In fact, they said, it was unlikely she would be able to participate in an active sport. Immediately following surgery, it appeared that the doctors may be right. However, the surgery was successful and after a long recovery while she stayed at RMH near Children's Memorial Hospital, Michelle is now an energetic and healthy high school student athlete. This year, she is a starter on her volleyball team and captain of the tennis team.
